WCA Looks toward New, Traditionalist Church

By Sam Hodges

Nov. 11, 2019 | TULSA, Okla. (UM News)

Wesleyan Covenant Association leaders say a breakup of The United Methodist Church is necessary and inevitable, and they want to be ready.

"We are preparing for the launch of a new Methodist church in the aftermath of General Conference 2020. We see the Wesleyan Covenant Association as a bridge to this new church," said the Rev. Keith Boyette, WCA president. Boyette was among those speaking at the WCA's fourth Global Gathering, held Nov. 9 under the title "Transformed."

The event drew about 1,000 people to Tulsa's Asbury United Methodist Church, with another 2,000 watching via simulcast at 86 locations around the U.S. and in other countries. ... read more
